

This is a section of a Divorce judgement handed down in a Circuit Court in Ireland in 2003.

Basically the wife got everything and the husband ended up on the street with ZERO value.

If it happened to a Mother it would be wrong. It happens to Fathers. Is this EQUALITY?

ANTI-MAN

THE COURT DOTH ORDER as follows:

1. A Decree of Divorce pursuant to Section 5(1) of the Family Law (Divorce) Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as "the said 1996 Act").

2. A Property Adjustment Order in favour of the Applicant wherein the Applicant is to receive 100% beneficial interest and share and entitlement in [redacted] in the County of Louth (hereinafter referred to as "the said family home") and registered as sole and full owner of the said family home.

3. An Order pursuant to Section 13 of the said 1996 Act wherein the Respondent is to transfer to the Applicant his entire legal and beneficial interest, share and entitlement in the said family home for the Applicant to be registered as sole and full owner of the property.

4.