Hi Liam,

It is so nice to know that i am not a lone voice crying in the wilderness and that someone who aspires to a position of authority really cares about what is happening to fathers in our society.

My name is MONICA, and i am currently a PhD student at studying Sociology. The focus of my PhD is single/divorced and seperated fathers, and the role that they can or cannot play in their childrens lives. There have been many studies which have focused upon the children or the mother, but so far very few have sought to ascertain what the fathers who are in this situation really want and need from our society.

If i can be of assistance to you in furthering knowledge in this area, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Yours etc.,
MONICA
